Excel Math Owner Retiring After 25 Years

POWAY, CA — Brad Baker, Owner and President of AnsMar Publishers, Inc. announced today his plans to retire from Excel Math in January 2018.

For over 40 years, Excel Math has been publishing proven elementary math lessons for students in Kindergarten through Grade 6. Hundreds of thousands of educators have used Excel Math since its inception and have seen outstanding results!

Here's what one San Diego engineer recently wrote to tell us:

"Excel Math was the ONLY math class during my entire K-12 career where I was forced into a critical thinking mindset and was able to sharpen my problem-solving skills. I went on to earn an electrical engineering degree and now work at General Atomics! Thank you for all you do for young math students."

— Jonathan, Aeronautical Systems Engineer

Brad reflected,

"As our team developed these Excel Math products through investigation, study, field testing and enhancement, we discovered that we had created something powerful. Without bragging, Excel Math is really good! All of us would like to thank those educators, parents and students around the world who have used Excel Math and have shared their success with others. It will be difficult to leave."

At the same time, he looks forward to new opportunities and spending more time with his grandsons. He plans to retire effective January 31, 2018 and will retire the Excel Math brand at that time.
